02 This website preview

Enquiry and newsletter forms run in your browser and do not send the information you enter to us. Form details are held only in the current page session. If you choose to download an enquiry, a text file is created on your own device. Closing or reloading the page clears the form state. Do not enter sensitive information.

03 Website delivery

The site is hosted through ChatGPT Sites. Requests to the hosting service may include connection information such as IP address and browser details. Google Fonts is used to load typography, so your browser contacts Google when those fonts are requested. Hosting and font providers apply their own privacy notices. No analytics, advertising pixels or marketing cookies have been added by this website.

04 Planned enquiry processing

Before live enquiries are enabled, we will confirm the service providers, retention schedule and lawful grounds for each use. The intended purposes are responding to enquiries, considering instructions and supporting transactions. Optional auction marketing will be separate from service enquiries. This draft does not authorise collection of identification or financial documents.

05 Sharing and retention

The final notice must identify the recipients used for hosting, enquiry delivery, registration, identity checks and professional services, together with any overseas transfers and safeguards. Retention periods or clear retention criteria must also be confirmed. These operating details have not yet been finalised for this preview.
